IN HER WORDS

ANGEL

“Through my time at Pace, I learned that accepting help is not a sign of weakness but a step toward growth. Before attending Pace, I didn’t want to accept help from anyone, and my mindset was more negative than positive. I struggled to believe that others could genuinely want to support me. Pace’s counselors and teachers taught me that things are always going to come at you in life, but it’s what you do and how you think that matters the most. Pace has empowered me to face challenges with resilience and a sense of self-worth. Because of Pace, I feel better prepared to face the world with confidence.”

FROM OUR COMMUNITY

"I give my time, energy and money to Pace Alachua for a very simple reason: it works. Pace transforms the lives of girls who have experienced trauma by giving them tools to be emotionally healthy and contributing members of our community. The staff's dedication to our Pace Alachua girls is unmatched in any other social services/educational arena that I have experienced as an attorney. It is an honor to be a small part of this team."
