A Letter from Interim President and CEO Mary Marx

Dear Friends of PACE,

The words of Dr. Etter Turner embody the transformation at PACE over this past year. In 2008/2009, PACE Center for Girls had the unique opportunity to “look to the past with grateful hearts, to the present with honest eyes and to the future with open minds.” We took the opportunity to reflect on our rich heritage and look toward the future with vision, focus and integrity. In “a changing today and a challenging tomorrow”, we are building wisely on PACE’s success and history.

PACE’s rich past is evident in the national recognition and impressive accolades received over 25 years. Most importantly, it is evident in the faces of the many girls whose lives are changed every day at PACE.

Over the next 25 years, we plan to develop ever more effective services for the welfare of all girls. To prepare, we looked critically at the present and took steps to meet the challenges of the future. We became more flexible so we could respond to local, state and national opportunities. We became more strategic to influence issues of importance to all girls and young women. And, we fundamentally transformed our leadership and governance model to remain at the forefront in the development of effective public policy. These changes were essential to a strong future for PACE and the future that all girls deserve.

Over the past year, I had two priorities as Interim President & CEO.

The first was to ensure that our program model remains current and effective for girls. With support from the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, we initiated a 2-year partnership with the National Council on Crime and Delinquency’s (NCCD) Center for Girls and Young Women. Through this partnership we are analyzing the theoretical foundations of the PACE model and aligning it with the most current research on effective practice.

My second priority was to strengthen our relationships with our stakeholders. PACE continues to be a strong voice for girls and a resource for our communities because of the hard work and dedication of our community partners. Involving multiple constituencies in believing in girls is the foundation upon which PACE is built. Their collective commitment, and the careful stewardship of the Board of Trustees, continues to advance the well-being of all girls and young women.

We had clear priorities. We used research and data effectively. And, we engaged a network of partners who bring diverse perspectives to our work. Throughout, we are guided by how collectively we can provide girls and young women an opportunity for a better future.

Respectfully,

Mary Marx
Interim President and CEO
Jamie’s Story

“Ever since I was in first grade I was picked on for my weight, how I dressed, how I talked, pretty much anything someone could find that was wrong with me. One day I had enough, and I got into a fight. This is when my mother said – enough! And she put me in an online school. The online school was difficult because it’s hard for me to work without someone helping me. That’s when my mom told me about PACE. When I learned more I knew it was the best place for me. When I came to PACE, for the first time ever, I finally felt like I ‘fit in.’ Now I’m getting good grades. My mother is so happy and proud of me. I always thought that I would be the one to drop out in high school, but not anymore!”

It is a milestone year for Pace Center for Girls, Inc. As we recognize all that PACE has accomplished over the past 25 years, we thought it important to reflect upon our past and build wisely for the future. The courage and accomplishments of our girls continue to be our inspiration as we celebrate 25 years of Believing in Girls. The rich heritage upon which PACE is built is evident in the faces of the many thousands of girls whose lives have been changed at PACE.

PACE Center for Girls, Inc. began in 1985 as an alternative to institutionalization and incarceration of girls and young women at risk of entering, or who were already involved in, the juvenile justice system. Today the mission of PACE has expanded to provide girls and young women an opportunity for a better future through education, counseling, training and advocacy. The philosophical foundation of carrying out the mission is that PACE values all girls and young women, believing each one deserves an opportunity to find her voice, achieve her potential and celebrate a life defined by responsibility, dignity, serenity and grace.

Over the past 25 years, PACE Center for Girls, Inc. has earned the reputation as a national leader in providing gender responsive programming and services. In doing so we accept both the accolades and responsibility that this reputation brings. The cornerstone of our work is to advocate for safe, gender responsive environments for girls and young women, to hold ourselves to the highest ethical standards, and to uphold our mission, our philosophy and our values and guiding principles.

A Letter from Congressman Ander Crenshaw

January 12, 2010

Dear President Marx:

It is my great privilege to serve on the PACE Center for Girls 25th Anniversary Committee. I would like to thank all the PACE Center for Girls’ past and present staff and volunteers that have contributed their time and efforts to these at-risk youth that are the future of this great nation.

As the father of two daughters, I know how important positive role models are in a young girl’s life. While my daughters have had the blessing of a strong female role model in Kitty, many young girls in our community do not have the same privilege. These young women struggle through life and many times get caught up in our criminal justice system at a young age. I believe, as I know you do, that PACE provides a vital safety net by giving these girls a true chance to succeed in life. Through education, counseling, training, and advocacy, the PACE Center for Girls allows Jacksonville’s girls and young women to reach their true potential.

As we celebrate this proud occasion of PACE’s 25 years of successfully changing the lives of at-risk youth girls in Florida, we must never forget that there are more at-risk youth that must be reached, and directed down the path of success.

Congratulations on this memorable 25th anniversary.

Sincerely,

Ander Crenshaw
Member of Congress

Dear Friends:

It is my pleasure to congratulate the PACE Center for Girls, Inc., on celebrating its 25th anniversary.

As Governor of the great State of Florida, I understand that our young people are the next generation of leaders not only in the Sunshine State but throughout our nation. We must provide Florida’s youth with the encouragement, education, and community programs to lead meaningful and productive lives. As Florida remains a leader in prevention and early intervention program specifically for girls, the PACE Center for Girls continues to provide a unique role in meeting the needs of the adolescent at-risk females.

For the past 25 years, the PACE Center for Girls is one of the nation’s most successful youth programs, helping to give more than 23,000 girls and young women the opportunity for a bright and better future. I am honored to serve on the Honorary Committee and proud to highlight the contributions of your tremendous team of staff, Board members, volunteers, and state agency partners, who each and every day provide encouragement and support to some of Florida’s most vulnerable citizens. As you celebrate this momentous occasion in the life of your organization, spend time reflecting on the many lives of young girls changed and look forward to continued success in the years to come.

Best wishes for a memorable 25th anniversary.

Sincerely,

Charlie Crist

In various cultures, the dragonfly represents prosperity, luck, strength, peace, harmony, purity and change. It can also be a symbol of the sense of self that comes with maturity.

The qualities associated with the dragonfly vary, but a few traits remain constant in all of them: hope, love and change. This year we celebrate the hope, love and change that have been the cornerstone of our exciting 25-year history.

  Each center has a cooperative agreement with the local school board to provide daily academic instruction with remedial services, individual instruction and specialized education plans.

Porscha’s Story

“When I was in regular school, I didn’t understand the work. Everything went so fast and I didn’t feel comfortable asking questions out loud. I skipped school because I started to give up and didn’t want to be there anymore. At the end of my ninth grade year my mom and I were looking over my report cards and my grades were horrible. That’s when I decided that I wanted to change for the better. I wanted to finish high school and get good grades, like I know I can. That’s when I found out about PACE. The PACE teachers and counselors push me to do my best and keep me on track. Without PACE I would probably be sitting in a classroom failing. But now, I’m on my way to a better future!”

Angel’s Story

“I was extremely shy in high school, so it was difficult for me to make friends. And I had some pretty unique interests, which didn’t make things any easier – ballet and auto repair. The other kids constantly made fun of me for it. I started skipping school to avoid them and my grades began to slip. I transferred to PACE Center for Girls and it truly changed my life. The girls and staff were so positive and supportive. For the first time ever, I actually enjoyed going to school. I went from a “D” average to a solid “B+” average, earned my high school diploma and even received a college scholarship, all while at PACE. Today I’m in college studying law and I’m also enrolled in a two-year automotive program to become a certified mechanic. I grew up around cars so I thought working on cars would be a fun way to pay the bills while studying to become a lawyer.”
